Mr. Jakeway's extra-curricular activities have included membership in S.E.A., Missionary Band, English Guild, and Orpheus Choir. He is president of the Music Educator's Club, and director of the senior choir at the Central Christian Church, Kankakee. Upon graduation he plans to enter Michigan State University to work toward his master's in Music Education. Also included in his plans are teaching on the secondary level and serving as part time music director at a local church.

During this time Miss Scott will be speaking at a special convocation in chapel Friday morning, will be the guest of the Missionary Band at the missionary rally in College Church Friday evening, and will be the speaker at the annual Missionary Band breakfast at 7:30 Saturday morning. Speech Club To Give Presentation "Roadways of Life"

A program entitled "Roadways of Life" will be presented by the Speech Club according to an announcement by the president, John Sparkes.

The program, compiled and directed by Dr. Leroy Brown, Speech Department, will be given Friday evening, 7:30 P.M., March 11, in Burke Recital Hall.

The essence of the program has to do with the effects of sin in a person's life, and this is brought through readings, music and narration. The first reading, "The Button", written by Robert Newman, will be given by Joe York. Presenting the second will be Gloria Sprinkle, "The Crossroads", written by Dr. Leroy Brown. The final reading, entitled "A Closer Walk", also by Dr. Brown, will be done by Jerry Ferree. The music for the program will be rendered by Dean Waldfogel, soloist, and Norma Wilson, accompanist. Barbara Malsom is the program narrator, and Marilyn Clark, student chairman.

Recently, the Speech Club has presented this same program in the N.Y.P.S. services of West Side Church of the Nazarene and Fairmount Church of the Nazarene in Kankakee. They are scheduled to present it April 3 at Hammond, Indiana, First Church; April 17, Emerald Avenue Church, Chicago; April 24, an afternoon service combining N.Y.P.S. and Olivet alumni, Danville; and that evening, West Lebanon, Indiana.

A total of four nations are now involved in full scale atomic weapon procedures. Two weeks ago France detonated in an isolated area of the Sahara Desert its first atomic weapon and the world's 29th. Although relatively small in absolute power, it was large in the effect it had and will have both in nationalistic France and the world in general. The prestige of France's fifth republic was pushed up a notch or two and the test was an added feather in the cap of Mr. De Gaulle's attempts to make France the more significant world power that it is fast becoming.

A study of France in the light of its present political situation is particularly reminiscent of Napoleon's rise to power a century and a half ago.

Napoleon came into significance during a time of revolt and unrest. So De Gaulle, at the toppling of the fourth republic together with revolt in Algeria, emerged as the answer to France's needs. Napoleon became the symbol to the French of nationalistic unity at a time when they so desperately needed it. And so today, in a world of chaos and under-round movements so prevalent in Europe, De Gaulle represents in the eyes of his countrymen the epitome of France on the rise. Napoleon was all-powerful in his control over his associates as he assumed complete domination of French affairs. Likewise, De Gaulle has shown such a spirit in his refusal to accept the resignations of his various ministers, and also in his actions involving the promoting and demoting of various army officials.

However, there is one all important difference that causes these situations to be worlds apart as well as years apart. And that is the "motive" involved in each circumstance.

Napoleon was first a lover of self, then of Corsica (his native country), and finally of France. De Gaulle, on the other hand, is first of all dedicated to France, then the interests of its people, and lastly concerned about himself. Although De Gaulle is probably considered an extremely ambitious man, his values are placed first in the welfare of France, whereas Napoleon's were involved in selfish ambitions. Bonaparte failed. De Gaulle, because of his strong determination for the rights of people everywhere, will succeed.

Witness his stand on the Algerian situation. He has determined that these people will have the deserved right of deciding by ballot as to the future status of their government. French rebels in the area have re-

Prior to his entering Ohio State Mr. Brady taught music in the public schools of Columbus, Ohio, in 1956-58. He has served as minister of music of the Wilson Avenue Church of the Nazarene in Columbus since 1955.

While he was in college, Mr. Brady was elected to Phi Delta Lambda, National Honor Society, and to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is a member of the Music Educator's National Council.

Beginning September 1, 1960, Brady will succeed Mrs. Naomi Larsen who has served as interim chairman of the Division of Fine Arts since the death of her husband in June, 1957.

Organ Recital Given As Second Of The Semester

Barbara is president of the Organ Guild, and is church organist and director of the two youth choirs at Central Christian Church in Kankakee. She is also a member of the Music Educator's Club and S.E.A. This fall, she plans to enter the University of Illinois where she will do graduate work toward her master's degree in organ. In addition, she will be giving private organ lessons.

There have been several new members added to the Orpheus and Apollo choirs this semester and we want to congratulate these people. The new personnel of Orpheus consists of Jim Bohi, Sharon Clay, Jim Hoffman, Elnor Pease and Jo Ann Shields. Additions to Apollo are Arbie Kremer, Jerry Lashley, Larry Smith and Walter Heck.

Speaking of new members brings up the fact that the Ambassadors Quartet has had a replacement in the person of Les Beals who not only sings but plays the piano for them. The "old" members, in case you've forgotten, are Larry Harshman, Gary Wilson, and Jim Beard. When spring vacation arrives, these fellows will head for Clearwater, Florida, to have a good old time in the sun — oh, I mean to sing in Clearwater First Church of the Nazarene.

The Crusaders Quartet made up of Ovid Young, Roger Kennedy, Roger McMurrin and Bob Huff have been quite busy. They have had several engagements in the Kankakee area as well as meetings over the week-ends in various churches. On Feb. 21 they were in Milwaukee in First Church. Last week-end they were in Muncie, Indiana. For the morning service they were at the Sunnysouth Church, and for the evening service they were at the Five Point Church. On March 7-11 they will be traveling to Hoopeston with Rev. Nash, so you can see they have a full schedule.

The next to the last Civic Music Concert will be given in Kankakee High School Auditorium on Thursday, March 10, and will feature the Curtis String Quartet. This should prove to be a very good concert, so don't miss it.

volted in action against De Gaulle's decision with insistence on keeping Algeria a part of France. But despite the crisis this has produced in his fifth republic, De Gaulle has not backed up one inch; instead he has appeared on the air reaffirming his position to all France and Algeria combined. The support of the people themselves on this question was evidenced the next day as thousands of workers spent an hour on strike to show their loyalty to De Gaulle and his stalwart principles.

De Gaulle will go down in history with great men such as Winston Churchill and John Foster Dulles for his diplomatic determination. As Max Ascoli, editor of "The Reporter" put it, "he is a combination of Abraham Lincoln and Douglas MacArthur." De Gaulle will be a leader in the fight of the West against Communist policies. I trust that the United States will recognize his abilities.

SPOTLIGHT ON THE FACULTY

by Don James

Heading the Department of Religious Education as its new chairman is Dr. J. Ottis Sayes, who has been working in this capacity since the beginning of the school year last September.

One of the most recent changes in this department has been the type of degree on which the Religious Education program is now being offered. In previous years, students with a major in R. E. have graduated with a Th.B. degree, whereas of next year, it will be given on the Bachelor of Science degree.

According to Dr. Sayes, there are several reasons for this change. First of all, the Th.B. degree is a professional degree for ministers, and accompanying this is the connotation for ordination. The layman, not in full-time Christian service, yet who wants to pursue Christian endeavor is discouraged in taking extensive work on the Th.B. degree because of difficulties arising later in job requirements of other natures. However, under the new B. S. degree, there is now a three-way major involved, which includes religion, church music, and business. It gives opportunity for a combination of jobs for one person to work in. By preparing individuals as "combination people" trained to do two or three jobs, advantage is given to the church not large enough to support the two or three individuals which would be required for various duties. For the individuals wanting to work in the church, it prepares them, for example, as education directors while at the same time they are prepared in the business field — or any other combinations in these above mentioned major areas.

As the Church of the Nazarene continues to grow, the need for persons trained in Religious Education increases. The purpose of the Religious Education Department is to meet this need. A person who desires to enter this field can receive either a major or a minor in Religious Education and can equip himself to be either a full-time or part-time worker.

One of the primary aims of the Religious Education department is to train persons who feel led of God to do church work, but do not feel a call to the ministry. Another important purpose is to train workers to do the tasks of the church that have kept the pastor from devoting most of his time to keeping prepared for promotion of the evangelistic spirit.

Since the turn of the century some basic changes have occurred in the duties of the pastor, so that in addition to his primary duty to keep evangelism spreading, he now is other work. The time a pastor must give to Sunday School work, Vacaburdened down with all kinds of

by Dale Galloway

In talking with a young person yesterday who is a member of a world-known church, I was shocked. When I confronted him with an invitation to attend my church, he said, "I might come, but I could take no part." When I asked him what would be wrong with helping us sing a song of praise to God, or offering a prayer of praise and thanksgiving to our great Savior, or listening to God's word being proclaimed, his answer was, "My church says I can't, so that's final."

Church history has proven that no church is infallible, being made of men who being human make mistakes. Protestantism was founded upon the principle that the Bible is the basic authority superseding any claim of the church or any tradition of man. The word of God being our authority, then our church must come within the framework of the Bible, instead of the Bible being expanded into the framework of the church. Our heritage is that each man has a right to read the word of God and to think for himself. "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good" — I Thess. 5:21.

J. B. Phillips wrote a book entitled "Your God is too Small." I think too many times, because of our trying to define God within the framework of our own small minds, He becomes too small. In the same measure, by minimizing this great, mysterious salvation we lose the greatness, the vitality, the intrigue, the thrilling, overwhelming joy and challenge of it. I stand amazed at the greatness of my God and yours!

ASBURY SEMINARY FACULTY MEMBER SPEAKS ON CAMPUS

Olivet's Ministerial Fellowship presented Dr. Delbert R. Rose, professor of Biblical Theology, Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Kentucky, in a One-Day Ministerial Workshop, Friday, February 26.

He spoke according to the following schedule: 9:30 A.M. — Chapel, on the subject "The Will of God"; 10:30 A.M. — Kelly Prayer Chapel, on "How Does I John 1:5-10 Sustain Our Wesleyan Message?"; 8:00 P.M. — Recital Hall, "How Can I Make Bible Study Meaningful to Myself and Others."

Dr. Rose was recently appointed to fill the Butler-Valade Chair of Biblical Theology at Asbury Seminary; this chair was established in honor of Dr. C. W. Butler and Mr. C. C. Valade, early leaders in the holiness movement. Prior to coming to Asbury, Dr. Rose taught at the Evangelical United Brethren Seminary in Portland, Oregon.

He is active in revival and camp meeting work in addition to his teaching ministry. He has been historian for the National Holiness Association for several years. He is an author and scholar. He holds the Ph.D. degree in Religion from Iowa State University.

tion Bible School, the musical program, etc., is distracting from his sermon preparation. The answer to this problem quite obviously seems to be the promotion of professionally trained leaders.

Dr. Sayes believes that opportunity in this field is increasing and that there is a growing demand for persons trained to do this work. It is Olivet's goal to train them.

Neglect Not So Great Salvation

by Rev. Forrest W. Nash

During my recent evangelistic campaign in Honolulu a young woman, who had been reared a Buddhist, was converted. Another young woman, whose mother was a devotee of the Japanese Goddess Cult, came forward for prayer. These are typical of much of the heathen darkness from which these Hawaiian Christians come. In many cases it means persecution and family separation.

What a contrast to the background of most O. N. C. students, who come from homes where Christian influence has predominated. Our heritage magnifies the meaninglessness of the petty excuses we have given for not surrendering to Christ. Our Lord is able to make all grace abound toward you. Therefore I Challenge You!

GUEST EDITORIAL

by Wesley Robbins

I have been made increasingly aware in the past few weeks of an idea on our campus that the school spirit of Olivet is of necessity tied up with the question of inter-collegiate sports, and that without an inter-collegiate sports program, Olivet can never have a strong school spirit. Since such a program does not appear to be possible in the near future, I feel that a re-examination of our school spirit and the factors that go to make up this spirit is in order.

First of all, what is school spirit? I would define school spirit as love for the institution and appreciation for the ideals for which it stands. This feeling makes itself manifest in such outward ways as defending the school from unfair criticism, doing things to help promote the program of the school, holding up the traditions of the school, and of course supporting the schools teams in athletic and academic contests. However, to be genuine the spirit must go deeper than any outward display. There should be that inward love and appreciation for the school and the people who make it up. There should be a feeling of pride in the work that the school is doing and joy in being a member of such an institution.

The next question that comes to my mind is: How many people on this campus have the type of spirit defined above? I do not have a numerical answer to this question, but I would venture to say that there are a large number of students who have no such feeling for this school. Therefore I would suggest that until we are able to develop a greater appreciation and love for this school, we are not worthy to have an inter-collegiate sports program even if it should be granted us.

In the meantime I feel that there are some areas in which we can develop a greater school spirit. Some of these centers of interest that come immediately to my mind are the chapel programs, all-school activities, the present sports program, and academic standing.

First, the chapel program, the family devotions of the Olivet family, can be a time of inspiration and spiritual growth if the student body will enter into it with the right attitude. Try just once joining in the congregational song, following the Scripture reading in the Bible that is on the seat, listening to the prayer of the morning, following the words of the special song, keeping awake for the whole message (you might be surprised at some of the good things the speakers say and you could even learn a few good jokes), instead of thinking how you can best beat your neighbor to the Universe. I have been amazed this year at the help I have obtained from the chapel programs, and I cannot help but feel that this is one area in which we can improve our school spirit.

How long has it been since you took part in preparing for an all school function, such as a party or program of some type? Or if not all-school function, even a club party? This is certainly an area in which a small number of people do all the work, and get very little praise. Yet I am sure that the social committee would be more than glad to accept volunteers to help them work on these functions, and I know that the clubs of our campus need some leaders and workers to push their activities. I fail to see how we can go around mouthing trite phrases about school spirit until we get into the swing of the school activities which we are fortunate enough to have now, and show our ability to plan and work efficiently in these areas.

We are fortunate to have a highly organized intra-mural athletic program that offers the chance of participation to almost anyone that would care to take part. Yet by the attendance at games and the lack of enthusiasm shown by the spectators, I would say that this program has failed to gain the support of a majority of the Olivet students. And the varsity team, while it has not had the greatest competition, has played several times this year to an almost empty house. Is this an example of school spirit? The chances are that if we had an inter-collegiate program, we might have a losing team. If this should happen, I am afraid that the team would get the same kind of support that it has gotten this year. But this is not true school spirit. True school spirit shows forth win or lose, good competition or bad, inter-collegiate sports or not. We have not shown ourselves to be worthy of what we have. So I would suggest that the student body as a whole make a

"O" Club Rings Up Seventh Victory

by Holland Lewis

Olivet's "O" Club basketball team picked up their 7th win of the season and placed six men in double figures as they rolled to a 104-81 victory over Shipshawana.

Shipshawana took an early lead before the Tigers drew on 3 quick baskets by Fulton. Larry Hendrick tied the game twice at 17-17 and 22-22 on foul shots before Olivet took the lead with 9:40 remaining in the half. The Tigers never trailed again and left the court at halftime with a 10 point, 44-34, lead.

The second half saw Olivet explode for a 60-point production which put them over the century mark for the fourth time this season. Howard "hot rod" Owens again was the big gun for the Tigers as he picked up 26 points and played an excellent floor game. Don Lytle, in an outstanding performance, and Preston Figge, in probably his finest showing of the year, were the rebounding strength of the Tigers. They also tossed in 13 points apiece. Harry Fulton put in 16, followed by Smith with 12 and Haugh with 10. The scoring was rounded out by Hutchinson and Hendrick with 7 each.

Shipshawana was led by Smith with 20 and an Olivet alumnus, Jerry Petrie, with 14. Added help came from Morford who tossed in 12 points. Paul Dishong, another former Olivet student, saw limited action, but hit for 7 points to add to the losing cause. The home crowd roared loud and long as Howie Owens dropped in a free throw near the end of the game to hit the 100 mark for the Tigers and add a little extra interest to one of the better games we've looked in on this year.

deliberate effort to improve the spirit of the present sports program.

Finally in the area of academic standing, I think the ineligibility list speaks for itself. It is continually amazing to me how so many people, who would take it as a personal insult if you questioned their intelligence, can do so miserably in their school work. While this school maintains a fairly high scholastic standing, there is no reason why almost every student on this campus cannot maintain at least a C average. How can we call ourselves Christians, preparing to do God's work and then take our preparation so lightly and carelessly? Someday some of us are going to have to answer for this negligence to Almighty God. I would suggest that we take this matter as one of standing of the student body as a whole. It is only as we take steps like this that we can develop a sense of responsibility and pride that is a prime requisite for true school spirit.

We do have the resources for a true school spirit. There are enough of us here, faculty and students alike, that would do anything in our power to promote the Olivet spirit. There are definite areas in which this spirit can be improved, many more I am sure besides the ones I have mentioned. I therefore contend that an inter-collegiate basketball program is not essential to a great Olivet school spirit, and that while most of the students here would enjoy such a program, we can in the mean time go forward with what we have and show forth a true Olivet school spirit.

by Bill Marsh

It hardly seems possible, but this weekend marks the end of another basketball season. About 3½ months ago, a new setup in the athletic department presented everyone with a greater opportunity for participation and what was thought to be the best arrangement up to the present year. So let's take a gaze over the past months and see if it really has. Did it accomplish its purpose in giving everyone a greater opportunity for participation? Have we seen better games this year? The answer to the first question would have to be "yes". Every one has received a greater opportunity to play. Prof. Ward's selected team which plays only outside church teams and church organizations, the intramural "A" teams, and the intramural "B" teams present three different forms of participation.

However the other question is a bit harder to answer. The intramural games have been entertaining, not completely because of their basketball finesse, but many times because of their humor. While everyone tries hard, it is no disgrace that some people are better than others. The important thing is that everyone does his best. There are several factors entering into the answer of the same question concerning the "O" Club team so let's survey them. Possessing several players of All-State recognition while in high school, the "O" Club team has played teams of considerably less talent. While everyone likes for his team to win no one likes to see repeated trouncings, and many times this has been the story of the games. As a result, the spectators were frequently seen leaving at the halftime intermission. The Olivet Basketball players, when playing against such competition, never rise to their peak, and when they do meet a good team they are not ready for it. They would find themselves on the average playing rougher competition in intramural ball. But then they would be denied the watchful eye of a coach to help them improve, and also the challenge of playing for the college's best team. The college professor who has an advanced student would challenge him always with something more difficult to help him improve and keep his keen interest. However this does not seem possible under the present system. Some people would rather see the intramural teams as the only competition thus guaranteeing a higher quality intramural competition, whereas another faction prefer the present system. There are undoubtedly other possible solutions also. The important thing is that, whether or

INTRAMURAL TITLE TAKEN BY INDIANS

In the opening game of the final round, the Indians scored more points than any society team thus far this year. The Indians took a 39-30 halftime lead behind the scoring of Haugh's 10 points and Keith Powell's 8 points. In the second half the Indians scored 54 points to the Trojans' 37 to run away with the game. Keith Powell pumped in 24 points in the second half to lead the attack while John Haugh added 12 more. Keith reached a career high of 34 points as his team clinched the intramural title. John Haugh added 22 points in a very fine performance. Ronnie Workman was the Trojans' standout as he scored 23 points. Larry Winchester added 18 more for the Trojans.

The Spartans and Indians met for the last time of the year on February 5 with the Spartans gaining a 67-63 victory. The Spartans started the game off fast hitting a good percentage of their shots as did the Indians. Both teams battled hard and at halftime the Spartans had gained a 5 point lead at 33-30. Ted Turner was the Spartan leader with 12 points while Byers and Hoovler each had 7 points for the Indians. The second half was close at many times but it seemed that the Spartans always could score when they really needed the points. Ted Turner closed out the evening with 19 points and Jim Treece added 10. Ballard with 14, Sublette with 12, and Hoovler with 10 were the Indian high scorers.

The last intramural game of the season pitted the Trojans against the green-clad Spartans. The Spartans again started off fast and at times doubled the score. Dave Fowler, rebounding well as usual, also tossed in 10 points in the first half to lead his team to a 33-18 halftime lead. 14 of the Trojans 18 points were scored by Ronnie Workman. In the second half the Trojans played much better basketball and with Craig hitting for 14 and Roarick with 10 points, the Trojans pulled very close to the Spartans in the closing minutes. However the Spartans kept cool and went on to win their second straight victory in two days. The Spartan high scorers were Ted Turner, 13 points, Dave Fowler, 12 points, and Bill Marsh with 11 points. The Trojans also had 3 scorers in double figures. They were Tom Craig with 15 points, Ronnie Workman, 14 points, and Ed Roarick with 13 points. The final standings of the year and scoring are:

Society All-Stars

John Haugh — The leading scorer and one of the finest rebounders in intramural competition, John is a first year letterman for the Indians. He averaged 19.5 points per game and also pulled down a lot of rebounds while scoring. While doing most of his scoring close to the basket, John is also a dangerous outside shot, to add to his all around ability.

Bob Stiles — Bob is a senior and a Spartan. While Bob averaged in double figures during the season and also led the Spartan scoring, his biggest asset is his rebounding strength. Standing just six feet tall, Bob is a determined rebounder who usually gets the ball when it is in his reach.

Tom Craig — Tom is no new letterman here at Olivet. He has lettered in basketball 3 previous years. Tom is most dangerous when allowed to shoot his one-handed push-shot from the outside of the circle. He is also an excellent ball handler and this past year coached the Trojans to a second place tie with the Spartans.

Keith Powell — One of the best rebounders in intramural competition, Keith also possesses all the attributes of an all-round player. He shoots as well two handed as one-handed or with equal accuracy on his jump shot. Keith scored more points in one game this year than any other player when he scored 34 against the Trojans in their last game of the season.

Olivet "O" Club Team

Chuck Ballard — Chuck was the only freshman to be chosen on the all-star team. Chuck is a guard who has lightning-fast reflexes and is a fast man on the fast break. Chuck's best shot is a jump shot anywhere near the basket out to 20 feet and he is accurate either on the running jump shot or from a set position.

Tigers Top Century Mark For Third Time

by Holland Lewis

Howard Owens with 32 points and Harry Fulton with 30 points led the way as Prof. Ward's Tigers sent Chicago First Church home with a 108-54 defeat. The Tigers ran to a 15-point lead, 52-37, at half time, behind the sharpshooting of Owens and Fulton.

The second half saw the Tigers make a complete runaway of the game as the final score was doubled 108-54. Gross was the leading point getter for Chicago First, as he tossed in 17 points. He received help from Boss and Woll who scored 13 and 11 respectively. These boys put up a fine battle but for a losing cause.

Once again, the entire squad saw action and scored as Lytle, in his first appearance for the Tigers, picked up 12, and Figge followed with 11 to round out those in double figures.

Olivet got their point production on 41 field goals and 26 free throws, while Chicago First picked up their 54 points on 20 field goals and 14 free throws. The Tigers played this game without the services of starters Lobb and Smith as they won their seventh game against two defeats.

Coach Ward and these fellows have worked this year under very difficult conditions. Let's show our appreciation to these fellows through our attendance to as many of the remaining games as possible.

not we do agree with the extent of what is being done, we help in whatever way we can, for the athletic department is doing all in it's power to present us with the best possible program.

Tonight might possibly be the last basketball game of the 1959-60 season so be sure to attend and see which class receives the title "best class basketball team at Olivet". It could be the team which receives the best backing from it's class. Even though you don't play you can greatly aid them in this way.
